

Early History of Big Sioux Township

By: Eric Rosenbaum

Eric presents a discussion about the early settlers of the Big Sioux Township and their life styles. Big Sioux Township had a role in early fur trading, agriculture, military supply, and the growth of area. Some dangerous and nefarious activities transpired in what later became North Sioux City, Dakota Dunes and the surrounding rural area. Included will be a discussion about the 2014 discovery of human remains along Interstate 29.
